MEDIA TURBULENCE: WINDS OF CHANGE

6 P.M. THURSDAY, AUGUST 13

VIRTUAL TOWN HALL

Despite a barrage of challenges, journalists for traditional media have shown renewed vigor and independence over the last three years in upholding their First Amendment mission of reporting freely on society and serving as a watchdog on government. This talk by veteran freelance journalist and retired University of Georgia journalism professor JOHN W. ENGLISH will focus on the rich reporting and enduring spirit of a free press. It will also examine obstacles in its future.
